AFC Pro Bowl Breakdown

This Sunday in Hawaii the greatest of the top team up for the 2011 Pro Bowl The AFC versus the NFC January 30th 2011 at 7PM EST at the Aloha Stadium. When prepping to bet on football examine who made the AFC squad and how they size up.

The AFC has many excellent men to choose from, so here is a rundown of the 2011 Pro Bowl team. They've got an remarkable selection of qbs to choose from including San Diego's Philip Rivers, Indianapolis colts legend Peyton Manning and Matt Cassel from Kansas City, his teammate Jamaal Charles will be on the list for Running Backs, also on the show are Chris Johnson from the Titans and Arian Foster from the Texans who has support from his teammate Vonta Leach. Then there are wide receivers Reggie Wayne, Brandon Lloyd, Dwayne Bowe, and Wes Walker. Tight ends Marceded Lewis and Zach Miller are also fighting for the AFC this weekend. Tackles Joe Thomas, D'Brickshaw Ferguson and Matt light will squad up with Guards Kris Dielman, Logan Mankins and Brian Waters. Rounding out the offense are centers Jeff Saturday and Alex Mack.

When placing your football bets note that the NFC is favored in this Pro Bowl matchup at minus 2.5 points with the total over under at 56.5.

On AFC defense there's Robert Mathis of the Indianapolis Colts, Jason Babin of the Titans and Randy Starks of the Dolphins. Interior Linemen Haloti Ngata, Vince Wilfork and Kyle Williams join outside linebackers Cameron Wake, Terrell Suggs and Shaun Phillips as well as inside linebackers Ray Lewis, and Jerod Mayo. Cornerbacks Nnamdi Asomuha of the Raiders, Darrelle Revis of the Jets and Devin McCourty of the Patriots will be joining free safetys Brandon Meriweather and Michael Griffin and at last powerful safety Eric Berry of Kansas. Finally, special teams will involve punter Shane Lechler of Oakland, Placekicker Billy Cundiff of Baltimore, Kick returner Marc Mariani, special teamer Montell Owens and Long snapper John Denney of the Dolphins.

One athlete you is not going to see on the AFC Pro Bowl roster this weekend is Tamba Hali, the AFC's leader in sacks. A Penn State grad, he was originally in the roster but has slipped out due to personal reasons. It was intended to be his first Pro Bowl, instead Philips of the Chargers gets his spot. This means Penn State won't be represented in Hawaii this year.

Of all the fantastic athletes joining up in Hawaii this year, the NFC's Michael Vick got the most votes with 1.5 million. This is going to be his 4th Pro Bowl, and his 1st since being released from prison on dogfighting charges.
