

Published based on Football Probabilities – Green Bay Packers Finley Likely Out For The Year

Football Probabilities – Green Bay Packers Finley Likely Out For The Year

The news just keeps growing worse for Green Bay and their NFL lines are beginning to be adjusted. The Green Bay Packers received news on Wednesday that tight end Jermichael Finley will miss the rest of the year with a right knee injury. Finley was carried off the field throughout Sunday's OT loss to Washington and was formerly expected to miss only three weeks. He's now out for eight to ten, however the Packers are not currently planning to place him on injured reserve in case they make it to the post season. Still, he is very likely going to miss the rest of the regular season.

The Packers have been destroyed by injuries and there's no assurance that starting qb Aaron Rodgers plays this week and his standing is big to NFL wagering odds. Rodgers is benched with a concussion, and the NFL's new stricter guidelines make it pretty difficult to get him back in the match devoid of being absolutely certain that he is well enough to play.

The Packers host Miami this week and sport gambling probabilities makers are waiting on the standing of Rodgers before they put out a line on the competition. What we do understand is that Green Bay will be devoid of one of their leading offensive participants in Finley. He was a superb target for Rodgers and will certainly be missed.

More Injuries – The Packers injury show is gaining to be ridiculous. Furthermore to Rodgers being sketchy with a concussion and Finley out of the game for the year, they're destined to be devoid of linebacker Nick Barnett who is likely gone for the year with a wrist injury. Linebacker Clay Matthews has a hamstring strain, defensive lineman Ryan Pickett has an ankle sprain, tight end Donald Lee has got a chest sprain and safety Derrick Martin is out of the game for the year with a knee injury. And all this doesn't even include the ones the Green Bay Packers were already dealing with. Running back Ryan Grant is out for the year along with starting safety Morgan Burnett and defensive lineman Justin Harrell. And this squad is deemed a Super Bowl favorite? I don't think so. It's going to be tough to make a Super Bowl bid transpire when half your squad is hurt.

Packers 8-1 at the sports book – The Packers are still 8-1 in NFL free online betting probabilities to win the Super Bowl this year. That figure is ridiculously low. The main reason the Packers continue to be contenders in any way is that the NFC is vulnerable. The New Orleans Saints do not look as great as last seasons, the Vikings and Cowboys are a mess and even the Falcons are not blowing folks away.

The merely good news for Green Bay is that they might get cornerback Al Harris and safety Atari Bigby back soon even though it might not be this week. If you are considering the Green Bay-Miami competition in football lines you'll have to wait until late in the week before it is possible to wager the competition but the Dolphins may be worth a play thinking about every one of the injury troubles that Green Bay has.

You can also find this article published on Football Probabilities – Green Bay Packers Finley Likely Out For The Year, and on the tag pages derrick martin, green bay packers, nfl wagering odds.