

Published based on NBA Betting - Can Atlanta Hawks Continue To Soar?

NBA Betting - Can Atlanta Hawks Continue To Soar?

NBA sports gambling odds have come to value the Atlanta Hawks as a reliable Eastern Conference playoff contender with the NBA betting odds. NBA gambling anticipations aren't as high as a year ago for the Atlanta Hawks nevertheless as they were not impressive in their NBA gambling prospects loss to Orlando in the playoffs last year.

Atlanta concluded the season with 53 victories but was swept by the Magic in the second round of the playoffs after being extended the full 7 games by the undermanned Bucks in the opening round. The playoff failure cost coach Mike Woodson his job, and now Atlanta assistant Larry Drew will take control as the head man.

The sports book started out with Atlanta as a +5000 longshot choice to win the NBA championship and as a +2500 selection to win the Eastern Conference. Atlanta has an over/under win total of 46.5 when making a free online bet.

On the list of reasons for the big figures on Atlanta obviously have to do with the new seem Miami Heat and their famed "Three Kings" but additionally due to the fact the Atlanta Hawks seem stagnant and marking time compared to their foes in the Eastern Conference that are making considerable endeavors and moves to improve. They additionally still continue to perform in the same conference with squads such as the Celtics, and even though the Western Conference is looking relatively weak lately, the Eastern Conference seems to be expanding stronger.

However this is a squad that hasn't even been to the NBA Finals since 1961, and has not won it since 1958. Mike Woodson was held responsible for the failure of the squad in the course of the playoffs, however the reality is that they at least made it to the playoffs 3 years back to back after a long dry spell with no playoff appearances enduring eight seasons.

Joe Johnson is the cornerstone of the Atlanta team and a essential NBA wagering asset that headed the squad in scoring with 21.3 points per competition last year. Johnson tested the free agent waters but decided to stay home and inked a 6 year deal worth $120 million.

Atlanta chose to spend money on keeping their sound squad together rather than selecting a makeover or a significant import from another team. The fickle Atlanta market will insist on a long run in the playoffs and if that doesn't seem feasible there are likely to be a lot of empty seats at Phillips Arena this season.

Drew has been an assistant for 14 years including the past six under Woodson as the Hawks felt it was significant to sustain as much continuity as achievable as a result of the balance of their lineup.

Basketball gambling online handicappers will be looking for Atlanta to perhaps offer some board benefit as they will definitely lack the recognition of such Eastern Conference competitors Orlando, Boston, and Miami whilst having a solid nucleus.

Johnson will must impress Atlanta devotees as he had some important things to say following the Atlanta Hawks Basketball gambling playoff ordeal last year. This is a do or die season in Atlanta.

You can also find this article published on NBA Betting - Can Atlanta Hawks Continue To Soar?, and on the tag pages assistant, atlanta hawks, failure, nba, nba betting odds, playoff contender.