Nba Gambling - Griffin Dunks Over A Car For Victory

Blake Griffin of the Los Angeles Clippers was the heavy fave in basketball betting to win the Slam Dunk contest on Saturday night and he delivered in a huge way.

In the final round it was Griffin putting on a show which including jumping over a car. Bettors making an NBA bet on Griffin at the sportsbook in the Slam Dunk contest got the win.

Entertainment Victories Out

Griffin won the Slam Dunk competition due to the fact he was the enthusiast fave and because he put on a show. Washington's JaVale McGee finished second although he had some tremendously extraordinary dunks. The Slam Dunk contest though has become more about putting on a show than actually doing a tough dunk and Griffin put on a big show in the final round. Griffin added out a choir to sing and he had a visually extraordinary car that he jumped over to make his final round dunk. It was definitely a show and due to the fact Griffin was the hometown fave in Los Angeles, he was an effortless winner for bettors making an NBA bet.

Greater Dunks

Griffin's other dunks were actually better than his final dunk even though he didn't put on as a lot of a show. And the dunks by McGee and DeMar DeRozan were additionally quite impressive. McGee had 2 unbelievably hard dunks in the 1st round. He did a dunk on 2 separate baskets for one of his dunks and on the other one he dunked 3 basketballs. DeRozan should have been in the final but Griffin was the hometown favorite and got more points than DeRozan in the first round. DeRozan ended up finishing third whilst Serge Ibaka finished 4th. Ibaka's dunks were furthermore great but he didn't actually get compensated either, specifically for his dunk where he started from the foul line and dunked the ball. He got only 45 points for that dunk which was a correct foul line dunk unlike a few of the earlier ones including the one by Julius Erving a lot of years ago that was a full step in front of the foul line.

The Slam Dunk match was a recognition competition but in the 3-Point Competition that happened only before the Slam Dunk contest, talent won out. James Jones pulled off online basketball betting upset as he defeated Ray Allen in the final.
