NBA Gambling Online - 2010-2011 San Antonio Spurs Sneak Peek

The San Antonio Spurs are nearly usually a squad to consider in NBA gambling internet as they are well coached, have a lot of knowledge and a strong home court edge. The San Antonio Spurs won 50 contests last season and they were also a champ against pro basketball gambling point spread. The Spurs are getting old so this might be one of their last chances with their current roster.

The San Antonio Spurs have grabbed 27 division titles in their 33 years, which gives them more for that interval than some other Basketball team. They have not missed the playoffs in 13 seasons since they acquired Tim Duncan in 1997. Last season was considered a reconstructing year when the general manager, R.C. Buford, attempted to handle the team's age and health concerns. They achieved the playoffs last year but were beaten by the Suns.

The team's celebrity player, Tim Duncan, has won several awards as well as accolades. He's thought to be one of the greatest power forwards in NBA history.

Last Year's Record 50-32 SU, 44-37-1 ATS - The Spurs were a productive squad last season as they won 50 games straight up and 44 competitions versus the NBA wagering point spread at the sports book. San Antonio is constantly worth considering but age is a question with plenty of of their best competitors having watched their best days.

Expected Starting Roster

Guard - Manu Ginobili

Guard - Tony Parker

Center - Antonio McDyess

Forward - Tim Duncan

Forward - Richard Jefferson

Prediction - Tim Duncan is a upcoming Hall of Famer and he's still a quite good player but he is no more fantastic. He's turning 35 years old this season and while he still can score and pull down rebounds, he is not going to dominate as he once did. The Spurs have been great with Duncan throughout the years. Since Duncan has been in San Antonio the San Antonio Spurs have the greatest record in the nfl and they've won 4 NBA titles. Duncan can nonetheless be counted on to score and to rebound though he does need assisting. The Spurs have a great guard blend with Manu Ginobili and Tony Parker. The trio of Duncan, Ginobili and Parker are still able to successful matches for San Antonio but if the Spurs are to beat a team like the Los Angeles Lakers they need more from participants like Jefferson and younger competitors like DeJuan Blair and rookie Tiago Splitter. The Spurs paid lots of cash for Jefferson and did not get much from him a year ago as he averaged just 12.3 points per game. The San Antonio Spurs should be helped this season as Parker is well. He missed plenty of time last year and that hurt San Antonio. He's a key player for San Antonio in Basketball gambling internet and can not be replaced. The Spurs are effective at fighting at a advanced level again this season and it is not out of the question to see them make one more run at the NBA title in 2010-2011.
