

Published based on NFL Gambling Lines – Week 8 Sneak Peek

NFL Gambling Lines – Week 8 Sneak Peek

Week 8 NFL Football Gambling lines contain a game in London as the Denver Broncos encounter the 49ers. That is not the highlight game of the week though with the Sunday night game on NBC between the New Orleans Saints and Pittsburgh Steelers receiving lots of competition in NFL odds and the Monday night game between the Texans and Indianapolis Colts.

Denver versus San Francisco from London – This game is a pick and considering how bad both teams have been that appears about right. San Francisco is technically regarded as the home team for this specific competition, but obviously it will likely be held across the ocean and neither squad is actually going to have the home field edge. The match was arranged to be in London following the accomplishment of the NFL's first trip to Great Britain back in 2007. The NFL dedicated to three further matches in the UK. Last season, the Patriots beat the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in a match in London. International competitions have been received well by devotees and will most likely serve to increase the NFL's recognition overseas.

Jacksonville at Dallas – This is another ugly game between 2 poor teams. Dallas is a 7-point favorite and the total is 42.5 at the online sports book. It's awesome that Dallas is being liked at anything in any way this year, which says a whole lot about the quality of the Jaguars.

Washington at Detroit – The Lions are in fact a 1-point favorite at home with the total at 44. Matthew Stafford returns for the Detroit Lions and gamblers like Detroit.

Green Bay at Jets – The Jets are setting 6-points in this matchup between the Green Bay offense and the Jets defense.

Carolina at St. Louis – The Rams are 3-point favorites at home with the total at 37. Steven Jackson is doubtful for the Rams.

Miami at Cincinnati – The Bengals are troubled this year but they're still two.5 point home favorites in this game versus Miami.

Buffalo at Kansas City – The Chiefs are getting 7.5 points to the losing Bills. Buffalo was cut-throat last week though and nearly beat Baltimore.

Tennessee at San Diego – The Chargers are favored again. Why are they favored? They lose each week but individuals still imagine. They're 2-5 whilst the Titans are 5-2, yet the Chargers are laying four points.

Bucs at Arizona – The Buccaneers are 4-2 whilst the Cardinals are 3-3 but it's the Cardinals who are getting 3-points in NFL sport betting prospects.

Seattle at Oakland – The Raiders are 2-point faves at home with the total at 42.

Minnesota at New England Patriots – The Pats are 5-point faves with a total of 44. Brett might not play for Minnesota and that might be excellent news if you bet the Minnesota.

Pittsburgh at New Orleans – This ought to be a great one and the NFL lines are a pick with the total at 44.

Houston at Indianapolis – The Indianapolis Colts are 5-point favorites with a total of 49.5. This is a rematch from the opener when Arian Foster ran through the Colts defense.

You can also find this article published on NFL Gambling Lines – Week 8 Sneak Peek, and on the tag pages home, indianapolis colts, new orleans saints, point, tampa bay buccaneers, total.