NFL Gambling Lines - Pittsburgh Steelers At Dolphins

NFL gambling lines handicappers continue to be impressed with the Steelers as they're among the favorites with the NFL gambling odds to win the AFC. Football gambling probabilities have been difficult to figure for the Miami Dolphins as they've played superior on the road than at home thus far with the NFL betting lines.

The Miami Dolphins will sponsor the Steelers Sunday with a CBS telecast that will kickoff at 1PM Eastern. The sportsbook opened up with Pittsburgh as a three point fave and with an over/under of 40.

Pittsburgh has a NFL football wagering record of 4-1 both straight up and against the spread and is arriving from a 28-10 home win and payoff against Cleveland in Ben Roethlisberger's first competition back as starting quarterback. The Pittsburgh steelers defense is looking Vintage Steel Curtain and rates number 1 in the NFL for points allowed.

The offense has been directed by running back Rashard Mendenhall, who has 495 yards and a four.3 yards per carry average with 5 tds. Big Ben had a good 112.7 Qb rating a week ago with a 3/1 touchdown/interception ratio.

The Miami Dolphins have a betting on NFL football record of 3-2 both straight up and vs the spread. The road squad has won and covered all 5 of Miami's matches this year and the Fish are arriving off an exciting 23-20 ot win at Green Bay a week ago. Miami rates 24th in scoring on offense and 23rd for points granted on defense. The Dolphins are 3-0 in road games but have yet to win at home.

Chad Henne has an 85.3 Qb rating with a 7/5 TD/INT percentage as the backfield team of Ronnie Brown and Ricky Williams are once again the principal offensive threats as both backs are over 4.3 yards per carry on the season. Henne is averaging only 7.0 yards per pass attempt.

The Steelers have gotten the cash in just three out of their last 10 as a road fave however the Miami Dolphins have covered 8 of their last 9 as an underdog. Pittsburgh has gone over the total in 21 from their last 31 AFC games. Miami has fallen under the total in 18 from their last 26 games that follow a straight up win.

The Pittsburgh steelers have Roethlisberger back following his multi-game suspension at the beginning of this season, and they furthermore have an upset linebacker in James Harrison. Harrison was penalized $75,000 by the NFL for an illegal hit after he hit Mohamed Massaquoi on the head. Harrison became angry and said that he wasn't sure how to play football anymore with the new rules from the NFL and threatened to quit. The NFL seems to be trying to crack down lately on injuries to their competitors, such as new rules regarding competing with concussions. Yet another competitor, Brandon Meriweather of the New England Patriots, was penalized for a similar reason but simply apologized and promised to play better.
