This week in NFL gambling online should genuinely be a “show me” week. Teams that are fighting for the playoffs are meeting over the board including in Miami as the Dolphins sponsor the Tennessee titans. Tennessee is a minor road fave in Football gambling at the internet sports book. Both teams are undergoing major changes to their offense which should affect their performances on Sunday evening.

NFL gambling odds expectations stay high for the Tennessee titans as they are among the leading competitors to make the AFC playoffs with the Football wagering lines. The match will begin at 1 PM EST on Sunday, November 14.

The Titans know that the Indianapolis Colts are struggling this season. So the Tennessee Titans are likely to try to separate themselves from the rest of the AFC south whereas crucial players are injured in Indianapolis. That mission is likely to start in Miami with the 4-4 Dolphins in football bets.

Debut of Randy Moss - Much of the recognition in this competition will likely be on the Tennessee titans because it will indicate the debut of Randy Moss with the squad. It's anticipated that Moss will open up the running lanes for Chris Johnson and give quarterback Vince Young a deep risk. Going up against the Dolphins is not new for Moss as he played that squad 2 times every year with the Pats Patriots. In spite of being released by the Vikings, Moss continues to be one of the best receivers in the league. The Tennessee Titans offense is already distressing, but with the addition of Moss, they are going to be one of the most scary in the NFL.

Tennessee Titans 5-3 SU, 5-3 ATS - The Tennessee Titans have been a great squad this year vs the NFL betting probabilities and they're pretty much in the race for the AFC South title. A win here against Miami would firmly entrench them as a sound playoff competitor. A loss would place them back in the mix with a number of other squads in the AFC. The Titans have Chris Johnson and now they have Randy Moss so their offense might be greater. They by now have a leading 10 defense that is 9th in the league in fewest points allowed.

Miami Dolphins 4-4 SU, 5-3 ATS - The Dolphins have competed a challenging schedule. You will find simply no breaks for Miami. They lost against a superior Baltimore squad a week ago and now they've got to face a quite great Tennessee squad. If they can get a win here they will get to 5-4 and then get to play Chicago next week. There's no doubt that this is a substantial competition for the Dolphins if they intend to make the playoffs this year. Miami is presently 0-3 at home.

Recent Series History - Miami has won 7 of the last ten meetings between the 2 teams even though they are just 5-5 against the Football betting internet point spread. The squads played last year in Tennessee and it came down to the wire as the Titans backed out a 27-24 win. The most recent time they met in Miami was in 2006 when the Miami Dolphins won 13-10. Miami furthermore won in 2005 at home by a score of 24-10.
