

Published based on NFL Gambling - Steelers Vs Bills

NFL Gambling - Steelers Vs Bills

NFL gambling handicappers saw the Pittsburgh steelers get back in the swing of things last week with an impressive come back win that followed a bad NFL betting performance versus New England Patriots. NFL betting fans are starting to take notice of the Buffalo Bills as a squad that has not crammed it in for the year and one that can bring plenty of NFL wagering board value.

The Bills will sponsor the Pittsburgh steelers with a telecast on CBS which is established to kickoff at 1:05 PM ET. The sports book started out with Pittsburgh as a six point fave and an over/under of 42.5. The Steelers will have to bring their "A" game to this one as the Bills offense has exploded after sleeping for the 1st half of the year.

The Pittsburgh steelers have a record of 7-3 straight up and 6-4 with the NFL wagering lines and they have an even 5-5 split with over/unders this season. Pittsburgh is arriving from a 35-3 bounceback home win over the Oakland raiders last week that came after a 39-26 home loss to Pats on Sunday Night NFL.

The Steelers have split their last four matches and are in a 1st place tie with Baltimore in the AFC North. The Pittsburgh steelers defense continues to be the foundation of the team as it ranks 5th total in the NFL and third for points granted.

The offense has been inconsistent and rates simply 22nd in total as the passing attack rates 21st. Running back Rashard Mendenhall has been the leading competitor with 811 yards rushing and also 8 touchdowns.

The Bills are riding a 2 competition gambling on NFL football winning streak and possess a record of 2-8 straight up and 5-4-1 vs the spread with an even 5-5 divided on over/under. The Bills are arriving off an extraordinary 49-31 comeback victory at Cincinnati last week as they rallied from a 31-14 halftime deficit.

Buffalo rates 24th for total offense and 25th for total defense. Ryan Fitzpatrick has gotten better at quarterback after initially starting the season as the backup. Say this for coach Chan Gailey; his players haven't quit.

The statistics may not indicate that the Buffalo Bills offense has been advancing but they've made major strides since the 1st game of the year. Ryan Fitzpatrick has been powerful in the pocket and is growing into a workable qb. On the ground the departure of Marshawn Lynch has opened up the door for CJ Spiller to get more involved with the game but it has furthermore directed to Fred Jackson receiving more quality carries and leaving his mark.

The Bills have been placing points on the board with Ryan Fitzpatrick throwing it and Fred Jackson running the ball. The Buffalo Bills have actually appeared to be a respectable offense in recent weeks but they're taking a big step up this week against the Pittsburgh defense.

Pittsburgh has each of the obvious Football betting rewards in this match and ought to be ready and take the Bills seriously thanks to Buffalo's fortune lately. The Steelers had a nice rebound this past week but must show that they are able to be a steady value on the board.

You can also find this article published on NFL Gambling - Steelers Vs Bills, and on the tag pages , Defense, new england patriots, NFL, nfl wagering lines, patriots nfl.