

Published based on NFL Gambling Sunday Night Football - Minnesota Vikings Vs Packers

NFL Gambling Sunday Night Football - Minnesota Vikings Vs Packers

The Vikings sponsor the Green Bay Packers for their second encounter this season. The Green Bay Packers beat Brett Favre for the 1st time on Lambeau Field but now Favre will have Aaron Rodgers in addition to his former squad in his dome in Minneapolis for this critical competition for NFC North supremacy.

The Packers are arriving from a bye week and the Minnesota Vikings lost to a Chicago Bears team that right now has six wins and leads the NFC North. Brett Favre didn't put up the 400 plus passing yards in this game as he did the prior week. The Minnesota Vikings were additionally held to 70 yards on the ground vs a formidable Bears defense.

Clay Mathews is the driving force of the Packers defense. With Clay Mathews in the roster, the Green Bay Packers defense is one of the greatest in the NFL sport betting and when he's out there's an obvious let down. The Packers are off the bye week and should be well relaxed and healed up to do battle in this match. They are superior vs the pass, merely allowing 217 yards through the air and a good run defense which allows 123 yards on the ground.

Brett Favre and the Vikings offense have played well this season but Favre has made essential errors at vital times. With Favre in the lineup they've had odds to win nearly all of the contests they have lost but they have to get the ball in Adrian Peterson's hands. Nevertheless, with Favre having announced that this will absolutely be his final year in the NFL Sports Gambling, it could be that he's additionally motivated to beat his former team once more.

Peterson has relieved his fumbling concerns this year and has created some huge time offense for the Minnesota Vikings. Peterson opens up the field for Favre to get the ball down field but Clay Mathews will be attacking on the edges to rush Favre in this game. The Vikings offense has the tiniest advantage over the Packers defense in football bets.

The Vikings defense has been disappointing this year and has contributed to most of their losses. Checking out the figures they've been strong. They have merely permitted little over 300 yards of total offense per competition and are holding their Football competitors under 100 yards rushing per game. Jared Allen is off his game up front and the Minnesota Vikings are prone on the edges.

Aaron Rodgers has lost his # 1 running back and number 1 tight end for the Green Bay Packers this season however has kept going. Rodgers is using a wide variety of receivers beneath since Jermichael Finley went down for the year. Brandon Jackson is hit or miss as Ryan Grant's replacement however has demonstrated signs of being a big time back. The Vikings defense and the Green Bay Packers offense are a wash.

The Green Bay Packers are the negative three point favorites, with the over under listed at 44.

You can also find this article published on NFL Gambling Sunday Night Football - Minnesota Vikings Vs Packers, and on the tag pages Defense, football, green bay packers, minnesota vikings, nfl sports, season.