Applying for Same Day Passport Renewal

Citizens of the USA can get same day renewal of passports a couple of different ways. One alternative is to set up an appointment at a regional center and submit the application themselves. Another approach is to authorize a third party such as a registered expediting service to deliver the renewal application to the processing center and, then, mail the renewed passport when the process is finished. While the processing of the application may be finished the same day, it may take 24 to 48 hours to actually get the passport and be ready to travel.

The first step to submitting applications at a regional agency is to set up an appointment. Phone lines are frequently busy and may demand multiple tries until you get through. It's possible there will be no available slot earlier than the date of your trip. In this case, you could risk going to the nearest agency without an appointment. Individuals who can turn in proof of an emergency situation are likely to be helped even though this is not always the case. Travelers who live far away from the regional processing center face a much greater risk and will need much more time to get the same day passport.

An alternative way of getting same day passport renewals is to get a reliable expediting service to turn in the application in your stead. Since they visit processing centers each day, contacting the automated appointment system is not necessary. The experience of a passport expediting service is very valuable in a scenario where you are pressed for time and have to renew your passport as speedily as possible. Expeditors can help you avoid things that might hold up the process.

Getting expedited passport service through one of these companies demands you pay an extra fee for the company's service. Of course, the cost of personally going to a regional passport processing center or having to reschedule a trip could actually be higher than what you might pay to get a same day passport renewal through an passport expeditors.
