

Published based on Buying Left Handed Golf Clubs

Buying Left Handed Golf Clubs

Doesn't it suck when the sport you love to play requires you to buy custom equipment just because you are left handed? For a baseball player you need a special left handed catching mitt. Golf requires left handed clubs.

A few of the other popular sports however, don't require the expense of special equipment. One such sport is basketball, you aren't required to wear special leftie shoes or different balls either. Neither does tennis the racquets are all the same. The pads used for football are universal as well. Soccer too is not specialized, but you already figured that out didn't you? Not being able to use the same equipment as everyone else makes loving the sport more difficult. Thankfully more golf club makers are becoming aware of this need and working towards appropriate lines of leftie equipment. Here are a few of the left handed clubs now available to you.

You may want to check first at a nearby store that sells sporting equipment. You can more easily find the right clubs for you when you are assisted by sales associates who know their stock well. Remember, not all golf clubs are the same. Your height, your weight, your build, your stance -all of these come in to play when you are choosing a golf club for yourself. You really want to hold and feel different golf clubs to find out how they feel, and you can do this at a sporting goods store. You'll have the option of buying one single club, if that's your preference.

The Intech Junior Golf Club set is also meant for lefties. It sells on Amazon for less than one hundred bucks and comes very highly recommended. This set was created as a starter set for young golfers. It is targeted to boys, but we can't come up with a reason why left-handed girls can't use them. This set was created for kids who are about three to seven years old (or very short eight year olds). This is a wonderful set for left handed kids who are anxious to get out on the golf course with their parents.

Left handed golfers can also find someone who can make custom golf clubs for them. You can get exactly what you want this way, but you have to be willing to pay a high price. There are private golf club makers that usually advertise in local golf pro shops or on the internet. You could also ask some of the more serious golfers where you play if they know anyone who makes golf clubs.

It can some times be exasperating, being a left-handed person. A majority of the western world revolves around right-handed individuals. This means the things many right-handed people take for granted can be a bit obtrusive for a left handed person. Even the game of golf can be hectic as it is sometimes a challenge to locate left-handed clubs! Luckily, there are a variety of shopping options available! Do some investigating and be sure you're getting a decent deal!

Whether you are right-handed or left-handed golfer, we highly encourage you to utilise Golf GPS. Golf GPS can improve your golf skills tremendously by letting you to accurately figure out the distance of your golf ball towards the hole. By figuring out the precise distance, it will assist you to to choose the right golf club, decide on the direction of swing as well as helping you to account the wind factor. Garmin has released a number of popular Golf GPS in the marketplace. You can find out more about Garmin golf GPS at <http://www.gpsreviewsonline.com/garmin-golf-gps/>.

You can also find this article published on Buying Left Handed Golf Clubs, and on the tag pages club, handed golf clubs, junior golf club, left handed golf, leftie, person.