New Premiership Fixtures Out

This August the new premier league season starts, I dont know about you guys but I am very much looking forward to it. I am excitedly looking forward to how the new managers and the new players are going to do. We need some quality and top players in the premiership this season as many assuming few of them will leave. I got some nice silver kitchen accessories for my other half as a bribe just so that she agrees on getting sky sports box from August. If you want to receive something you got to give something.

Premiership season starts Saturday on the 14th August. New clubs who have been promoted from the championship to the premiership are surely raring to go. Newly joined clubs are Blackpool, Newcastle and Wolverhampton. Current champions Chelsea are already in the market looking for some new talents. Liverpool, Manchester City, Manchester United, Tottenham and Arsenal are also in the market looking for new players. This is going to be a massive year for Tottenham as they will be participating in the biggest European competition the Champions League after they finished fourth behind Arsenal.

They will have to quality to enter the competition first though but I am sure they will qualify with the players they have. Top three start with Liverpool, West Bromwich and Newcastle. Chelsea is at home to West Bromwich, Arsenal are away to Liverpool and Manchester United are host Newcastle. I just know that this coming season is going to be one of the hardest and exciting seasons so far as there are so many teams competing for the title.

I just hope my wife agrees to get sky sports, I am willing get her dinnerware, dinnerware, diamond bottle opener or anything she wants to be honest. I am kidding about diamond bottle opener I cant afford it. How about you lot are you looking forward to the new English premier league season?
