Let me tell you a humble secret that will take any average golfer and better their game right away. We are not talking about a golf course or a magic golf swing. I am just talking about the simple yet effective golf range finder that most professional golfers use nowadays. It is simple to use, effective and will enhance the quality of your golf dramatically. It is something you will notice the first time you use it how healthy it is to perpetually know the distance.

A golf range finder is a tool that will tell you the distance to various objects on a golf course. Golf range finders have different features depending on price and producer but the core concept is to find a distance. The purpose is to find the green or to avoid traps. You will now have the ability to perpetually choose the right club for your next shot. This will better your club selection by distance because you will be more aware of your golf.

Here is a humble list of how healthy a golf range finder is:

- Helps You Find the Flag
- Takes the Guesswork out of the game
- Helps You Stay Away from Dangers
- Allows You to Pick the right Golf club

As this list shows, there is not limit to the benefits of using a golf range finder. The types of golf range finders can be defined into three main groups.

The lowest quality and the cheapest range finder is the optical scope. The second type is a GPS golf range finder that uses a GPS system to calculate the distance to an object. The last type is a laser range finder that is very accurate and used by most professional golfers.

If you are not using one already you should take action today and find the golf range finder that will fit your require. You might want to think which type will fit your require and then find the right brand as there are many producers on the market today. The most popular ones and the best golf rangefinder producers are Bushnell and Leupold.

Each type has its cons and its pros so what you decide must come down to personal preference. The cheapest option is the optical but it is also the least accurate. The laser range finder is healthy if you want to be able to find distances to various objects, such as traps or the flag, a healthy type that I recommend is the Bushnell Tour V2 Rangefinder. If you lack a line to the object you want to measure a laser range finder is limited although a GPS has all the course material loaded into it so that is a healthy benefit. So you will have to decide if you want accurate measurements but will require view or if you want to go for the cheap option.
